PREFACE.

It is of the utmost Importance to found our Principles upon the solid Basis of Truth; and before we declare ourselves on this or the other Side of any Question, we ought thoroughly to understand the Matter in Debate, and seriously to consider the Consequences of adopting this or the other Opinion: When we have done this, we are fitted for a manly and uniform Profession of what we take in hand. Reason points out to us the Method; and a Consciousness of our being right, supplies us with Resolution and Fortitude to pursue it. It is of the greatest Moment to every Society, that a just Estimate be formed of the Powers of Government, and the Liberties of the People; for on this depends every Thing which is held dear, whether of a civil or religious Nature; and what makes it still more interesting is, that every Man in this Case is like Adam, the Representative of his Race, who are to be rewarded for the Virtues, or punished for the Vices, of their Progenitors. Never was there a People whom it more immediately concerned to search into the Nature and Extent of their Rights and Privileges than it does the People of America at this Day. By an unfortunate Train of Circumstances, the Affections of our Mother Country seem to be alienated from us, and an avaricious Desire of making the most of us, seems so far to have blinded her, that unless we are, by some Means able to counteract her ill-judged Measures, we shall not only be undone ourselves, but shall have the Unhappiness likewise of seeing Great-Britain sink in the vast Ocean of her own Misconduct. It is with a Design to excite in these People a just Sense of the Misery and Grief of Slavery, and to animate them to a proper Discharge of their Duty, in making use of such Instruments as Providence has put into their Hands, for the Preservation of their Liberties, that the following Sermon makes its Appearance at this Time, in which the Difference between a virtuous and vicious, a wise and stupid, a free and a serf-like People, is so justly displayed, that it is hoped a due Impressions will be made on all, into whose Hands it may come, excepting only those remorseful Wretches, whom a righteous God has given over to Blindness of Mind, that they should not know their own and their Country's Interest, or to Hardness of Heart, that they should see the Distresses, and hear the Groans and Lamentations of their Brethren, without the least Compassion for their Sufferings.—The Learning and Piety of the Reverend Author are too well known to need a Comment. His Zeal for Truth and earnest Contention for the Liberty wherewith Christ has made us free, rendered him a Blessing to Mankind whilst living, and have so richly embalmed his Name, that it must be preserved with a Love of Virtuous Freedom, in the grateful Hearts of numberless succeeding Generations:—That his Memory may be still more endeared to Piety by his being Instrumental in raising in the Americans, just Apprehensions of their Obligations to themselves, to their Country, to their Offspring; and above all to that GOD, who has committed to them that inestimable Pearl, Liberty, is the earnest Wish, and fervent Prayer of

CONCIONATOR.

GEN.
G E N. XLIX. 14, 15, 16, 17, 18.

Issachar is a strong Ass couching down between two Burdens;
And he saw that Rest was good, and the Land that it was pleasant;
and bowed his Shoulder to bear, and became a Servant unto Tribute.

Dan shall judge his People as one of the Tribes of Israel.

Dan shall be a Serpent in the Way, an Adder in the Path; that biteth the Horse-heels, so that the Rider shall fall backward.

I have waited for thy Salvation, O Lord.

These Words are Part of the Prophecy that Jacob dealt among his Sons when the Days drew near that he must die, ch. 47. 29. and they let us see with what Variety of Temper those People acted, who all grew from the same Father: A full Argument how well the Distinction is form'd, That all are not Israel, who are of Israel, Rom. 9. 6, 7. Neither because they are the Seed of Abraham, are they all Children, chap. 49. 1. He here opens out what shall befall them in the latter Days, and how they would carry it when they came into the promised Land; and because some of 'em should have little or no Taste of Liberty, and others would pursue it through all the Expence and Danger that lay in their Way, he places these Two together, that every one who reads may do Justice upon the plain Opposition there is between 'em.

I shall consider the Words, First, as they describe a People that are Sluggish and Cowardly, who will venture nothing to save All, whose Souls are beneath knowing the Distinction of Bondage and Freedom: And on the other hand, as they give us the Character of those who admire their Liberties, and will dare to seek and fetch 'em wherever they are carried; who reckon this a Property that should not be lost as long as it can be kept, and will scarce submit to an Existence under Tyranny.

In these two Branches you have the Division of the Text; Here's a Tribe of Israel that gives us an Example of each Temper: Issachar is remembred for his Neglect of that which Dan was resolv'd upon no Terms to part with: And by observing what what good old Jacob faith of these Two that were so unlike one another, we may fix the Characters that are due to those who either despise or value the Deliverance of this Day.

I. I shall begin with the Account that you have of Issachar, whose Passive Obedience (if you’ll call it so) is condemn’d to Memory by these Words; Issachar is a strong Ass couching down between two Burdens: And he saw the Rest was good, and the Land, that it was pleasant, and bowed his Shoulder to bear, and became a Servant to Tribute: Where you have three Things,

1. The general Temper of this People.
2. The Subjection and Bondage they fell into. And,
3. The Reason they gave for this Stupidity.

(1.) You may observe, that many of the Tribes have their History couch’d in a Refemblance that’s given of ’em: They are compar’d to some Creature of that very Disposition that should obtain among ’em: Thus (ver. 9, 21, 22, 27.) Judah is a Lyons Whelp; Naphtali a Hind let loose; Joseph a fruitful Bough; and Benjamin a ravening Wolf. Now these Allusions would convey to us such Thoughts of the People as bear up to the Account we have of ’em afterwards: They are most of ’em to be understood as a Reputation; but what is said of Issachar is as full of Contempt as a Metaphor can be: We are to know him by his Likeness to the most heavy and stupid Animal in the Creation. Instead of having his Name from something vigorous and beautiful, his Father leaves this upon him, That he’s a strong Ass couching down between two Burdens. The Ground of the Similitude you see is the little Relish they should have for their Liberies, the lorry and dull Surrender they would make of themselves to Tyranny; which is a Temper expos’d in this Comparison two Ways.

1. It’s imputed to nothing else but the Stupidity of them that submit to it; the Tribe that sinks into those Measures is resembled by an Ass.
2. It’s condemn’d by the Insinuation that it was in their Power to have it otherwaye; Issachar is a strong Ass: That very Strength that makes him couch under a Load, would be sufficient to throw it off.

1. What the Comparison leads me first to tell you, is that the Foundation of all Passive Obedience is laid in Stupidity. They that couch down between two Burdens, who bow their Shoulders to bear, and become Servants to Tribute, may here see what Herd they belong to.
Tho' an Ass was more us'd in those Eastern Countries than it is with us, yet the Old Testament hath accounted of it as so mean a Creature, that the Comparison is very just: It seems to be made for no higher a Design than Drudgery, bearing of Burdens no way remarkable either for its Head or its Heels, so little capable of being taught, that the Folly of our Nature is signified by it, that Man is born as a wild Ass's Colt: And tho' it's true in those Parts, we find the greatest Men riding on them, yet it's a Creature that the Ceremonial Law hath branded in a very peculiar way: It must, upon no Terms whatsoever, be thrown among the Offerings of the Lord: The Command was very general, Exod. 13. 12, 13. Thou shalt set apart unto the Lord all that opens the Matrix, and every Firstling that comes of the Beast which thou hast, the Males shall be the Lords. This Law was laid out in that compass to put 'em often in mind of the Messiah, who should be the First-born of every Creature; yet to this there's one Exception, and the only Animal left out is, every Firstling of an Ass thou shalt redeem with a Lamb; and if thou wilt not redeem it, thou shalt break its Neck.

So that when Jacob speaks of Issachar under this Comparison, 'tis a viler Name than he could possibly leave him by another; and it may intimate to us, not only the Stupidity of their Nature that run into this Crime, but a particular Unfitness for the Service of God. They seem to be the Outcast of both Worlds; they give up all that's dear to 'em in this, and shew a Dullness that can have no Room in the other. The way of serving God is without Fear, being delivered from the Wrath of Enemies, in Holiness and Righteousness all our Days, Luk. 1. 74, 75. The fearful and unbelieving are in the front of those Sinners who fill the Lake of Fire & Brimstone, Rev. 21. 8. You may always observe it, that an Indifference to Civil Liberties goes along with a Neglect of that which is Religious: A Man that throws away the Blessings of Providence*, cannot have a due Relish to those of Grace.

* It may be justly remarked, that when a People patiently allow their civil Liberties to be encroached upon, they are ripe for the Loss of their religious. My Brethren of the Diligent Clergy, I fear, have not sufficiently attended to this, and therefore under the Notion of keeping to their own Department, have in some Sense been regardles of the civil Rights of the People; now altho' I would not encourage blis Bodies, yet as the Loss of civil Liberty debilitates the Minds of Men, renders them unfit to examine into the Truth of any Propositions, and inclines them to fix their faith on whatever their Superiors pretend to believe. It is incumbent on all who wish well to Religion, and particularly Th'o' submitting to the impious Will of a Monarch hath been exalted as if it was the one Thing needful, yet it's easy to prove, both by the Rule of Scripture, and the Histories of Men, this is ticularly the Ministers of the Gospel, to use their utmost Efforts to preserve among those with whom they have any Connections, an inviolable Attachment to their Rights as Americans; for whenever we give up our Rights as Men, we shall be near being enslaved as Christians; so fully are some Episcopal Gentlemen persuaded of the truth of the above Observations, that from our Tameness in submitting to the late Innovations, they have been encouraged openly to avow their Design of laying a Foundation for Ecclesiastical Tyranny. I shall give only one Instance of this, by quoting a Paragraph from the Boston Chronicle of December 21.

"The Church Clergy of New-York and New-Jersey being assembled together in a voluntary Convention, and assisted by some of their Brethren from the neighbouring Provinces, took into Consideration the Propriety and Expediency of addressing the Publick on the Subject of an American Episcopate; after a thorough Discussion of the Point, they were unanimously of Opinion, that fairly to explain the Plan, on which American Bishops had been requested, to lay before the Publick the Reasons of the Request, to answer the Objections that have been made, and to obviate those that might likewise be conceived against it, was both Matter of Necessity and Duty; it was accordingly voted that something to this Purpose should be published, and the Reverend T. B. Chandler, D. D. Rector of St. John's Church in Elizabeth Town, New-Jersey, was appointed to this Service—This Work is just Published, entitled, An Appeal to the Publick in Behalf of the Church of England in America. Application had been previously made in Britain for one or more Bishops to be sent to America—Dr. Chandler mentions in his Introduction, that should any Objections continue, which shall be thought to deserve Notice, the Objectors are invited to propose them, that they may be fairly and candidly debated before the Tribunal of the Public; and if none should be offered, it will be taken for granted that all Parties acquiesce and are satisfied."—Thus, my Brethren, now or never you are to offer your Objections to an Establishment which caueth your Fathers to come from a Land of Plenty, and take Shelter in an uncultivated Wilderness, that they might, without Restraint, pay a pure and undefiled Worship to the God of Heaven. It is ardently wished that you may have the Spirit of Wisdom, and may be enabled so to speak in the Cause of Religion, that you may put Gain-layers to Silence; But it must be confessed, that there is great Reason to be alarmed for a People who, like hated Esau, have their Birthright despoiled. The foregoing is by no Means designed as a Reflection upon the Episcopal Churches in this Country, as they are now governed. It is only desired they would be content with the present full and free Enjoyment of their own Mode of Worship, without attempting to introduce any Thing which may, and certainly will, in Time, be destructive to the religious Liberty of their Disenting Brethren.
The Ass or, The Serpent. 7

so far from containing the whole of Religion, that it really possefeth no one Part of it: There can be no Faith in it, for that would both purify the Heart and conquer the World. It was this that made Moses forsake Egypt, not fearing the Wrath of the King.
Heb. 11. 27. And there can be no Love, I mean to God or his People, for that would teach us to value what the One gives and the Other enjoys: And tho' this may be call'd Patience, yet it's a Prostitution of the Name to a Temper which hath none of the Thing; for this Grace shews itself in Bearing a Burden, not in Laying it on. The over-ruling Hand of God we must submit to, but this will conflict with all the Zeal we can use against the Tools he employs. The Distinction is a good one, and as old as David, who knew how different his Behaviour ought to be: If the Lord hath stirred thee up against me, faith he to Saul, let him accept an Offering. I have deserved it from him, and cannot answer him one of a thousand; but if they be the Children of Men, cursed be they before the Lord, 1 Sam. 26. 19.

'Tis plain that people lose their Christianity with their Liberties; and when once an encroaching Power hath made 'em Slaves, there needs little more to make 'em Heathens. The Miniflers that preach up This Doctrine, will soon understand no other: It shall drive Faith, Repentance and Holiness out of the Pulpit, and instead of feeding the Children with Bread, they'll give 'em a Stone: In a little while we shall hear of nothing else, but Obedience to the Lust of Men, as if Christ had no other Errand in laying down his Life, than to make the Kings of the Earth a compliment of Curs; that as he was a Servant of Priyers, we must be fo too; as if no Sin could be dangerous but what they call Rebellion, and the Terms of procuring to ourselves Damn-tion were never to be used but in one Cafe, which is refilling of a Civil Power. We shall seldom hear a better Application of that awful Argument; tis not so warmly pleaded to make us see from the Wrath to come, that being warned of God concerning Things not seen as yet, we may be moved with Fear: They'll but seldom trouble their Heads about the Danger of Debauchery, that Whoremongers and Adulterers God will judge: They'll tell us but little of the Hazard such are in, who are lovers of Pleasure more than lovers of God, who blaspheme the whole Scheme of Religion, and use that Book to make them laugh, which makes the Devil's tremable; who rush into the Retirements of our Worship, the Ordinances that ought to be kept clean and holy; I say, we hear little of their Danger, so the Scripture hath given us the same dreadful dreadful Word in that Cafe, which agrees so well with them in the other: They that eat and drink unworthily, eat and drink to themselves Damnation, 1 Cor. 11. 29. These are the Encroachments that Slavery will make upon our Religion.

But we have not so learned Christ. The Apostles that went about with the Gospel, were often claiming the Privileges of the Law. For this did Paul argue with the Centurion on the Stairs of the Castle, and would not let the Christian run away with the Roman: For this did he threaten to shake the Government of Philippi, and refuse to take his Liberty at that easy rate, of going out of the Prison; No, he was resolved to let those Magistrates know, that as the Laws of the Empire had given him a Protection, so he would never lose it for want of Zeal; and though the Jaylor, who was but converted the Night before, brought him the felfage, they have sent to let you go, now then depart in peace; yet he useth the Advantage that Innocence gave him over Tyranny, they have beaten us openly and uncondemned, being Romans, and have cast us into Prison, and now do they thrust us out privily, nay verily but let them come themselves & fetch us out, Acts 16. 36, 37. So tender was he of his Privileges, that tho' he knew as much as any Man how to despise the Pomp of the World, yet in this case he'll insist upon a Ceremony that perhaps was never demanded before; that the Magistrates of the Town should come to the Prison-door and beg Pardon, and bring them Out whom through a Mistake they had put In, and desire them to depart from their City. For this did he refuse to answer the Summons of Fenius, who would have betray'd him to his Enemies, but appeal'd to Caesar; and from this Principle did he deal so roundly with Annanias, God shall smite thee thou whited Wall, for sittest thou there to judge me according to the Law, and commandest me to be smitten contrary to the Law? Chap. 23. 3.

This is the Spirit of our Religion, it allows none of the Stupidity that Isiah was run down into; for an Ass can no more be a Pattern under the Gospel, than it could be a Sacrifice under the Law. But it's enough we are told what sort of Creatures they are, by the Metaphor in my Text; desppicable to Men, and rejected by God; made for Service and Contempt. The Comparison gives us the lowest Opinion of those to whom it belongs. They are by this represented as a stupid servile People, for the Word fits their Heads as well as their Shoulders.

2. THE Crime of their becoming Servants to Tribute, is hinted at by the further Account we have of 'em, that they lay under der no necessity * of doing it: They had it in their power to do otherwife, and might have compell’d a better Lot for themselves and their Posterity. Had they been drain’d, and weaken’d, and funk down to an Inability, that which was now both their Sin and Punishment, had been only the latter. But Jarchar was a strong Aṣ, able to Refuse a Load as well as to Bear it.

Several Annotators give us this Note from the Hebrew Word, that he was an Aṣ of Bone; which perhaps is a further Contemt of him, to tell us his want of Spirit, as if he was only Outside, a meer Shell and Frame of Nature: And indeed they who so tamely give up all that can be dear, show but little Soul in that Surrender. But I shall take the Words in the first Sense I gave you of ’em, that he is call’d a strong Aṣ; to signifie, that he had Capacity to have done otherways, only he wanted Heart and Courage to ufe it. He that cou’d, from between two Burdens, might easily have protefted againft One; he that bow’d his Shoulder to bear, could have cloath’d it with Armour: And the Wealth with which he paid his Tribute as a Servant, might have led him into the Field as a Rival.

All the Inftances that we have in Scripture of Submiffion to an unrighteous Power, represent the People as not able to do otherways. We never once find a good Man neglecting to refist an Injustice when he could do it. Moses indeed fled from Pharaoh because

* The Circumstances of the Americans are such, that they are under no Necessity of giving their Necks to the Yoke. This Continent is blessed with all the Necessaries, and most of the Conveniences of Life, and might support an hundred Times its present Number of Inhabitants, without borrowing a single Article from any other Quarter of the Globe; and if the People had Wisdom and Resolution enough to improve these natural Advantages, by encouraging Manufactures of their own, and by putting a general Stop to the Importation of foreign Manufactures, G. Britain, instead of treating us as Slaves, would be constrained to court our Friendship and Alliance.—As to the idle Threat of sending Troops to drag us into Submiffion to unjustifiable Utterpations, it is a mere Bugbear; for supposing in some future Time, an abandoned Ministry should propose to a weak Prince, to fend a powerful Army against us, can it be thought that G. Britain, as a Nation, would be so stupid as to suffer a Measure, which would infallibly expose them to the Ravages of French Troops; or would the Protestant Part of the People consent to an Expedition, which would, without doubt, in the End, fix the Crown upon a Popish Head? No surely, G. Britain has no Cord by which she can bind down the Colonies to Slavery, but their own Cowardice and avaricious Fondness for British Manufactures— Were we industriously to cultivate the goodly Heritage, which has fallen to our Lot, we might be free, rich and happy.
because he had no prospect of conquering him; but when he had to do only with a single Egyptian who was smiting one of his Brethren, he's no longer about it than whilst he looks this way and that way, and then he kills him, and hideth him in the Sands, Exod. 2. 11, 12. And this is so far from having the Centure, that a Slave would give it, that upon that Action he was in hopes to have raised his Publick Character, and by this Justice upon the Officer, thought to have led on that of the People upon the King, as the Martyr Stephen tells us; for he brings in this as the Reason why seeing one of the Jews suffer wrong, he avenged him that was oppressed, and smote the Egyptian, because he supposed his Brethren would have understood, how that by his hand God would have delivered them, but they understood not. If their Zeal would have come on as fast as his would have led it, they might have been faved then; but they lost 40 Years by their unbelief. David ran away from Saul, when he had no Friend to stand by him, but he put himself at the Head of a little Army as soon as he could; and the only Reason why he did not give him Battle was, because he had not Force enough: But when those great Numbers came to him every day, he makes no scruple to go out into the Field, for there fell some of Manasseh to David when he came with the Philistines against Saul to Battle, 1 Chron. 12. 19.

A just and holy God may indeed deliver us over to the Will of evil Men; but to say, that he would have us deliver up ourselves, is to blaspheme his Empire; for he hath no Fellowship with the Thrones of Iniquity, who frame Mischief by a Law, Psa. 94. 20. That which held Zion Captivity, was God's making her Strength to fail; He had delivered her into their Hands against whom she was not able to rise up, Lam. 1. 14: But when she had more Strength, there's a new Exhortation to use it; Shake thyself from the Dust, O Jerusalem; loose thy self from the Bands of thy Neck, O thou captive Daughter of Zion, Isa. 52. 1.

In these two things you have the woful Temper of this People: They were stupid, and not to be impress by a generous Argument; and tho' it's true, they had Strength and Capacity, yet it was all thrown away upon a lazy Nature, that would not use it. Issachar is a strong Afe conching down between two Burdens.

(2.) WE have the folly of their Behaviour, and are told, how soon they part with their Liberties. And here you meet with Bondage in every Form and Shape. Here's Oppression in all its Weight, befalls between two Burdens. Here's a Slavery to his Person, Person, his Shoulder is brought to bear what they lay upon him. Here's Poverty in his Concerns, he becomes a Servant to Tribute; and here's a Necessity for him to be Active in all this. Oppression stupifies the faculties, he couches down beneath his Burdens, he bows his Shoulder, he confents to be a Servant: What a Gulph of Perdition was this People sunk into? Whither will Tyranny lead those who have the Heart to follow it? Can we ever begin to flop too soon, when it will be so dreadful to have it too late?

1. YOU observe here what weight this Oppression was laid on with: 'Twas not what Rehoboam threatened, the Heaviness of a little Finger; but he couches down between two Burdens.

Some translate this between two Hills; and understand it of the situation that Issachar had in the Land of Canaan: Others suppose that it refers to the Quarrels they might have with those Two Tribes that lay on each Side of 'em; but the Words seem to tell us what a Load of Misery they had brought themselves under.

TYRANTS, who know no Justice, will allow no Mercy; they never think their Grandeur advanced high enough; they'll set no bounds to the Lust of Empire, but let it rove in all the License of their own Fancy. Do not imagine that there's any dealing with an Arbitrary Government. Laws are only Shackles upon you, but no Rule to 'em. Some remove Land Marks, they violently take away Flocks and Feed thereon, they turn the Needs out of the way, the Poor of the Earth hide themselves together: Behold as the wild Asses of the Desert they go forth to Work, rising betimes for a Prey, Job. 24. 2, 3, &c. and its the tame Asses of the Villages that fall into their Hands: They cause the Naked to go without clothing, he hath no covering in the Cold; they pluck the Fatherless from the Breast, and take a Pledge of the Poor; they take away the Sheaf from the Hungry: Men groan out of the City, and the Soul of the Wounded cries out.

If you would not couch down between* Two Burdens, you must enter an effectual Protest against One: For they that submit,

* Many Persons at this Time plead that the Duties imposed on the Americans by the late Acts of Parliament, are so light as not to be worth contending about, altho' they may not be strictly just; this is certainly a most trifling Way of arguing, even supposing the Sums were as small as they would represent, (which is very far from being the Truth) for never was a Scheme laid to enslave a People under the Sanction of pretended mit, will, in a little Time, be brought to that pass; Her Carriages were heavy laden, they are a Burden to the weary Beast, they flooip, they bow down together, they could not deliver their Burden, but themselves are gone into Captivity, Isa. 46. 1, 2. Thus did the Ammonites with the Men of Jabez Gilead; tho' the poor People would have submitted themselves unto 'em, yet they will allow of no calmer Terms than thrusting out the right Eye, and laying it as a Reproach upon all Israel, 1 Sam. 11. 2. So unlimited did Benhadad take himself, in the Court of a Man, who had gone too far, in saying, My Lord, O King, I am thine, and all that I have: He does not only claim his Silver and Gold, but his Wives and Children; and would send his Servants the next Day to take out what was pleasant in their Eyes.

This made David rather chuse to fall into the Hands of God, than into those of Man: Not but that the former could have destroyed him with more Expedition than the latter; but with the Lord there was Mercy, with Men there is none. And indeed the Process hath been very short; When once a Tyrant hath said your Laws were his, He hath soon come to affirm your Lives were so too. And therefore its the same thing being his Vassals, and being his Cattle. All that you have pertaining to Life and Godliness, is thrown in as a Morsel to Cæsar: They take up all of them with the Angle, they catch them with their Net, and gather them in their Drag, therefore they rejoice and are glad; They will empty continually, and not spare to lay the Nations, Hab. 1. ult. And how unhappy must the Case of a People be who never know when they have done Suffering? Such a Government tended Law, without an Endeavor to make the Burthen so light, as that it might, by the generality of the Victims, be disregarded at first and not felt, until it is out of their Power to remedy it. If we pay one Penny purely because the Parliament of G. B. have ordered us to pay it, we must, whenever they please, pay a Shilling or a Pound purely because they have ordered it.—And the present involved State of the British Nation, the Rapacity and Profundities of many of her great Men, the prodigious Number of their Dependents, who want to be gratified with some Office which may enable them to live lazily upon the Labour of others, must convince us, that we shall be taxed so long as we have a Penny to pay; and that new Offices will be constituted, and new Offices palmed upon us, until the Number is so great, that we cannot by our constant Labour and Toil maintain any more.—For the Injustice of living by the Sweat of another's Brow, the Cruelty of wrenching from the wearied, hungry Labourer, the Reward of his Industry, never make any Impression on the faint Breaths of those who think Mankind were made to be their Slaves.
The Ass; or, The Serpent. 13

government upon Earth resembles one of the worst Ideas that we have of Hell; where there is no Sacrifice for Sin, but a certain fearful looking for of more Judgment and new Indignation.

2. THEIR Persons were made vile and contemptible, they bow their Shoulders to bear. There are some Usages which God always reckon'd an Indignity to Human Nature. 'Tis for this reason that he limited the Number of Stripes that were to be given to a Malefactor, left thy Brother seem vile to thee: And the Statute of Murder is laid out upon this ground, That in the Image of God made he Man. Such an Oppression did the Jews live under in Egypt; their Burdens were very grievous in the Brickklas, the Task-masters oblig'd them to their whole Quantity of Work tho' they denied them Straw, and then punish 'em for not doing what they knew to be impossible.

When this comes to be the Lot of such as give up their Liberties, the Justice of God calls for our Adoration; they that have lived in Pleasure and Vanity, are most likely to make a Sale of all that they have; they have eaten the Bread of Idleness, and, How righteous is it with Heaven to give 'em that of Sorrow? That they who are brought up in Scarlet, should embrace Dunghills? This is one Consequence of Slavery; and it fell heavily upon the Priests at Jerusalem, who might remember their Sin in their Punishment: They that us'd to lead the Blind, came to wander as blind Men in the Streets, and so polluted with Blood, that Men could not touch their Garments: The Anger of the Lord divided 'em, and he would no more regard 'em, Lam. 4. 14. An Absolute Government Swallows as fast as you can Give, and, What will this come to in time? But the hanging up of Princes by the Hand, not honouring the Faces of the Elders, taking the young Men to Grind, and making the Children fall under the Wood, Ch. 5. 12, 13.

3. It runs out into Poverty. This paying of Tributes must be underflood of excelse Taxes; Impositions that are enough to drain * a Country: Not what a People consent † to for their own

* It is computed that the Duties to be paid by the Inhabitants of this Province only, in Consequence of former and late Acts of Parliament, and the Fees demanded by the Custom-House and Naval-Officers, will amount to no less than Six Hundred Thousand Pounds Old Tenor annually; and tho' we may charitably suppose that some Part of this Sum will be retained in the Hands of the Officers, yet it is likely that such a great Part of it will be sent home, as will soon drain the Country of all its Silver and Gold. The Misfortune of a People taxed by a foreign State, own Defence, but what are extorted from them. And then what signifies the Goodness of the Land, when the Profits are offered up as a Sacrifice to the Luxury of a Stranger? Thus hath a fruitful Land been brought into Barrenness. The Houses of the People were made a Dunghill: and they that have liv'd in the midst of Plenty, fought their Bread to relieve their Souls. They consent to the lowest Terms meerly to enjoy what Nature had made their own: We have given the Hand to the Assyrian to be satisfied with Bread, Lam. 5. 6. and, better are they than perish by the Sword, than such as are stricken through for want of the Fruits of the Field: It was a dreadful Article in their Judgment, thine Enemy shall distress thee in all thy Gates. Deut. 28.

4. That which makes the Case deplorable to the last Degree, is, that the People themselves concur in it, either through a Necessity, or the Habit of Bondage. They bow their own Shoulder to bear; and, by an unaccountable Mixture of Choice and Force, become Servants to Tribute. When a Nation hath given up their Liberties, they do not only lose the Thing, but all the Taste they us'd to have of it.

And this may be considered both as a growing Vice, and a Stupidity that the righteous God hath sealed 'em up under. The Mifery of such a Case hath this in it, that the People are never likely to remember from whence they are fallen or do their first Works; they sleep a perpetual Sleep, and do not awake. 'Tis not a Damage that sets them a Thinking, or warms a powerful Zeal to recover what they have lost; but by a long Course of Subjection it becomes their own Act.

(3.) I'll

State, would be much greater on this Account, than if the Impositors of the Tax refided amongst them: For altho' they might unjustly extort from them their Money, yet as it would still be in the Country, they possibly might at some Time, by some Means, get Part of it again: But when it is sent Three Thousand Miles over Sea, it is not very likely to return.

† The Right of Taxation, must, by the Law of Nature, which gives every Man a Power to dispose of his own Property, belong solely to the People who are to pay the Tax: and the British Constitution hath borrowed from Nature this Maxim, That no Man shall be taxed without his Consent, which is the Grand Pillar on which English Liberty and Property stands. Can a People then be bound by an Act which contradicts the great Law of Nature, which is originally from God? Or, can an Englishman submit to an Institution which saps the Foundation of English Liberty and English Property? But certain it is, that the late Act of Parliament is a Tax without our Consent, a taking our Property without so much as consulting us: But I need draw no more Consequences.
(3.) I'll enquire into the Reasons they give for this Neglect of 'em selves, or what it is they get in Exchange for their Liberties; and you find there are two Things that leave 'em under the Power of this Infatuation.

1. What they reckon the Favour of the Enemy, They saw that Rest was good.

2. The natural Advantages of their Country, The Land it was pleasant.

1. They see that Rest is good; which shews us how their Judg- ment is perverted, to suppose that there can be any such Thing as Rest, while the Yoke of Tyranny hangs upon their Shoulders. Now, this Opinion hath its only Root in Cowardise and Lazines. They dread the noble Toil of War, tho' the Hazards People run that Way, are far from being equal to those of a flavius Temper, you can scarce lose so much by venturing, as you give away by submitting. Whilst the Jews resifted Sennecharib, they had what we call a Chance for it; but he tells them roundly, If they made an Agreement with him by Presents, it must end in his taking 'em away from their own Land. And is this the Rest wherewith they would cause the weary to lie down? Is this all that a People get by throwing themselves upon the Mercy of a Tyrant? We may well say, Arise and depart, this is not your Rest, because it's pol- luted, Mic. 2. 10.

2. The Benefits of their Country was another Thing that soften'd 'em into this Compliance, They saw that the Land was pleasant. They'd no mind to be carried off, because here was enough for their own Necessity, and for the Humour of him to whom they paid Tribute. But what a poor Argument is this? If the Place was so good, it deservd to be fought for: If the Pro- duce of Nature there was so great, 'tis pity that they should have All of the Profit who had None of the Pains. Thus they plead- ed upon their Return out of Captivity, the Land that thou hast given to our Fathers, to eat the Fruit thereof, and the Good thereof, behold we are Servants in it; and it yields much Increa to the Kings whom thou hast set over us because of our Sins; also they have Dominion over our Bodies, and over our Cattle at their Plea- sure, and we are in great Distrefs, Neh. 9 36, 37.

Thus have I laid out to you the former of these Characters, and shown you how poor a Figure Isjachar made in the World.

But,

II. We have an Account of better Things in the Blessing that he pronounceth upon another Tribe. Dan shall judge his People like
The Ass; or, The Serpent.

like one of the Tribes of Israel; Dan shall be a Serpent by the Way, and an Adder in the Path, that bites his Horse's Heels, so that his Rider falls backward; I have waited for thy Salvation, O Lord.

What is said of this brave People, is so plain a Reversal to the Meanness of the other, that a very little Enlargement will serve here.

1. He begins with a new sort of Language to give us the Description of thefe. What they did would be worthy the Name they derived from their Father; Dan shall judge his People like one of the Tribes of Israel.

2. We have the Measures that he will take in order to it; and that is, the Use both of his Policy and Courage: He is like a Serpent by the Way, and an Adder in the Path, and, rather than be trampled on, he'll bite the Horse's Heels; he'll undermine the Foundations of Tyranny, so that the Rider will fall backwards.

3. These noble Designs are what Jacob recommends to the Blessing of God, in that Prophetic Rapture, I have waited for thy Salvation, O Lord!

(1.) We have a general Honour put upon them. Dan shall judge his People like one of the Tribes of Israel. What judging of his People means, I had occasion to show you the last Year; That it includes an Execution of their Laws, and a Defending of their Liberties from any that would oppress them. And this we find that Sampfon did, who was of That Tribe, and paid lefts Regard to an Enemy, in whose Country he lived, than any of the Judges. Now, do but consider how this is plac'd in a full Opposition to what was said of Ishachdr; and from thence you may collect, That those Rulers do not judge their People, who persuade * 'em to bow down under two Burdens: These are inconsistent with one another.

But what I would observe to you, is, the honourable Turn he gives this, That it's doing like One of the Tribes of Israel: As if they that neglect it were sunk below the Name. But Dan kept up the Dignity of his Family, and shou'd that his Descent from so many Patriarchs was not in vain. Those antient Worthies, whom God had call'd out from the rest of the World, led him the

* It is the Duty of good Magistrates to preserve the Liberties of the People over whom they preside; and whenever, from a Desire to aggrandize themselves, they endeavour to persuade a People to submit to arbitrary Infringements of their Rights, they not only forfeit their Title to the Respect which belongs to a good Ruler, but deserve to be treated with the Severity due to a Traitor.

the way to it. One of the most remarkable Things that Abraham did in a public Manner, was the taking of Five Kings Captive, Gen. 13. 1, 2. tho' the People in whose Quarrel he mingled himself, are the first Rebels we read of: He had Armour ready for three hundred and eighteen Men, train'd up in his House. Upon his Return from this Slaughter, Melchisedek, the Priest of the most high God, meets him, and gives him a solemn Blessing in His Name, who is the Possessor of Heaven and Earth. And tho' it's true, he refus'd to be made rich by the Spoils, yet the right that he had to bring down and plunder so many Tyrants, appears from his paying Tythes to Melchisedek; for we cannot think that he would have brought Robbery for a Burnt- Offering. Jacob recover'd a Part of the Land with his Sword, and his Bow out of the Hand of the Amorites; nay, he had the Name of Israel given him in the Field of Battle, because by his Strength he laid hold of the Angel, and had Power both with God and Man, and prevailed: So that Cowardice, in any of his Posterity, was a Departure from that noble Spirit their Fathers had been eminent for.

And especially, if you'll consider 'em as a People set apart to the Worship of God, they were bound to run all Hazards in defending what he gave 'em. When they were frighted with the Anakims, faint-hearted, and durst not go on, it was acting so far below themselves, that he will scarce own 'em to be his People; but says, That it's a Generation that do err in their Hearts, they knew not his Ways. Their Spirits had a wrong Turn, and he swore, That they shall never enter into his Rest; And if they should allow an Enemy to break in upon the Land of their Possession, it was dishonourable to their Name: But Dan bears up the old Figure, and in judging of his People, is like one of the Tribes of Israel.

(2.) Here are the Ways that he takes to do it. Where you may observe,

1. The Policy and Wisdom of this People: They are compar'd to Serpents and Adders.

2. Their Courage, or the Hazard they run: They'll throw themselves into the Path, venture being crush'd, rather than lose their End.

3. Their Resolution to have the Blessing whatever it cost 'em: If they can't dismount a Tyrant by mere Force, they'll bite his Horse's Heels, so that the Rider shall fall backward.

1. They

* Liberty can never be purchased too dear—Life itself is a Bond to those who groan under the Iron Yoke of Slavery.
1. They are represented as a wise and well-instructed People; a Serpent in the Way, an Adder in the Path. Doubtless Ifsachar thought it a good Prudential to humble themselves, and hold their Lives upon no other Tenure than the Will of a Prince; but this their Way was their Folly. Dan takes his Maxims as they rise from the plain Welfare of the Community: He'll neither be hector'd nor wheedled out of his Privileges; he'll lose 'em neither by War nor Treaty: As he's Serpent enough to understand what's best for him; so, like the Adder, he stops his Ears against the Voice of the Charmer, charming never so wisely.

The want of such a Spirit, is the Prefage of Ruin. Thou hast bid their Hearts from Understanding, therefore thou shalt not exalt them; Job 17. 4. Christ himself hath bid his People take 'em the Wisdom of the Serpent; tho' here I would not have you mistake this for the mere Wrigling of that Creature. Fraud and Artifice, lurking Ways, and lying Words, are as much below the Wisdom that will save a Nation, as they are against the Honeyfly that must have a Soul. Those Men that came to David, and had understanding of the Times, and knew what Israel ought to do, found that the Wisdom of the Serpent was confisent with the Innocence of the Dove.

2. Besides a Capacity to contrive what is best, here's a Courage to execute it. This is a Tribe that Mofes speaks well of in the Blessing that he gave 'em. Dan is a Lyon's Whelp, and he shall leap from Bashan, Deut. 33. 22. And we may observe a Character of that sort in the Verse before us, That he'll venture himself as a Serpent in the Way, as an Adder in the Path; he'll run the Hazard of being trampled under foot, rather than take up with the poor and scanty Terms that an Enemy gives him. 'Tis better being crush'd at once, than condemn'd to a miserable Existence: And these are things that will deliver a People over to the Voice of Fame: The good Esteem and hearty Wishes of the World will be to such as offer themselves willingly, and jeopard their Lives in the high Places of the Field.

3. They are determin'd to have the Blessing at any Expence: Nor will they lose Things for want of meer Names and Forms; they'll endeavour to bring down a Tyrant by his own Methods, if all the rest shall fail: And when he designds to ride over Liberty and Religion, if they cannot stop his Career, they'll break his Neck; the very Horse's Heels, which should have ruin'd Them, shall receive the Wound that will prove fatal to Him. And indeed when a People are thus inclin'd to loose the Bands of their Captivity, Captivity, it's no very hard Matter to humble the Wicked by the Measures they have taken. Violence and Iniquity do not so easily carry their Load, but, in a little Time, their Rider may fall backward.

(5.) WHEN Jacob hath thus describ'd his Son by the brave Measures that he'll take, he recommends the whole Design to the Blessing of God; I have waited for thy Salvation, O Lord.

Some imagine that the good old Patriarch was, at this Time, almost spent upon his Death-bed with going so far as he had done; and in these Words he takes Breath again: Others think there's in them the Horror of that Idolatry that he saw the Tribe of Dan would run into. But if you'll take 'em for a Pause, it's a Sign, that what he had said of a People getting back their Liberties, was of so much Value with him, that his Soul can rest a while upon it, before he proceeds to the other Blessings.

Or, you may understand it, as several would do, for a personal With, Q. D. "Let me turn aside for a Moment from telling "what will happen to you, and spend one Thought upon my "self. You hear what Issachar will give up, and Dan retrieve; "but these things belong to a World I am going from. There's "something nearer me than your Prosperity; I have waited for "thy Salvation, O Lord." If you take it thus, it tells us, That for good Men to know that they who come after 'em will be zealous for God, and truly concern'd for the Publick Interest, is OneCordial in a dying Hour; as David faith to Solomon, I go the way of all the Earth; but be thou strong, and show thy self a Man, 1 Kings 2. 2.

But I see no reason why the Salvation that he waited for, may not be connected to the ways that Dan would take in judging his people. And then it includes in it these three things.

1. His hearty Wishes to so good a Cause, Q. D. "This will "be thy Temper, and my Blessing go along with it. It's what "I think of with Pleasure, and in some of my last Breath com "mit thee to the Favour of Heaven: The God before whom my "Fathers walkt, the Angel that redeem'd me from all Evil, exalt "hath the Work of thine Hand."

And this we have had many Examples of; tho' good People were just at the Gates of Glory, yet they could not take leave of those that lay'd behind, without a Testimony* for the C 2

* However convenient it may be to live upon the Bread snatched from the hungry Earner, yet when Death comes, it is doubtful, whether the
The Ass or, The Serpent.

Caufe they had been engag'd in: Which ought to be of the greatest Value with us, that such a Number of excellent Persons have died Praying for the Peace of our Jerusalem. They have spoke well of the Liberties of Mankind, when themselves were leaving all Things of that fort; and we cannot think that God would let 'em go out of the World, either with a Lye in their Mouths, or a Trifle in their Hearts.

2. When he adds, I have waited for thy Salvation; It may be understood as a Direction to those brave People, to tell 'em, they must hope for Success in a religious Way. Second Causes are employ'd; but the good old Man would let 'em know, That their Salvation is of the Lord: And if they will conquer in earnest, they must be a People that wait for it.

This comprehends the Duty that they owe to him, their Dependance upon his Care, their Jealousy for his Honour. The Profane, the Unclean, the Evil-doers do not come into the Number. If they have any hopes of being deliver'd, 'tis from something else, for God is not in all their Thoughts. They that use his Name without Reverence, and his People without Pity, can't think that he hath any Pleasure in their Ways. But Jacob would have them give all their Counsels & Attempts a serious Tincture, for when the high Praises of God are in their Mouths, it will add a Weight to the two edged Sword that is in their Hands, Psalm cxlix. 6.

3. This seems to be an Act of his Faith in the great Messiah; for it's under this Name that another good old Man receiv'd him: Lord, now lettest thou thy Servant depart in peace, for mine Eyes have seen thy Salvation, Luk. ii. 29, 30. Nor could this be thought improper to mingle with the Zeal they had for Civil Liberties: It was by Faith in him that the Elders obtained a good Report, in subduing Kingdoms, working Righteousness, stopping the Mouths of Lions, waxing valiant in Flight, and turning to fight the Enemies of the Athie. The Believer hath in him the truest Courage. There's nothing in any one Doctrine of Christianity that will tye up the Hands of an injur'd People. One that the most hardened Son of Tyranny can look with Pleasure on the Heaps of Wealth which he has acquired by griev ing the Face of the Poor, but he who has zealously defended the Rights of Mankind, exults in his Conduct in his last Hours; and looking up to Heaven with Confidence, recommending the Cause in which he has been engaged to the great Ruler of the Universe, and humbly expects the bright Reward of them who have served God in Uprightness of Heart, and faithfully discharged their Duty to their fellow Men.

that hath tasted that the Lord is gracious, must have Pity to the Desolations of Mankind. He can't endure to see that Nature ruin'd by a Tyrant, that hath been honour'd by a Saviour.
And then besides as the Kingdom of a Messiah extends it self, it will proclaim Liberty to the Captives. It's an Institution, as well as a Prophecy, that there shall be no hurting nor destroying in all his holy Mountain; and he is then said to take to himself his great Power and Reign, when he destroys them that destroy the Earth. Rev. 11. 18.
And, again, One that hath Faith in Jesus, is waiting for that Time, when Kings shall shut their Mouths at him; Princes shall see and arise, and he'll strike through Monarchs in the Day of his Wrath, and wrench his Glory out of their Hands, who have taken it from him.
Again, waiting for this Salvation, prepares a Man for the Day of Battle. A Christian does not fight upon those Hazards' that others do, who lose two Lives at once, that which drops in the Field, and that which is eternal. The Believer in these Dangers takes himself to be fighting the good Fight, and keeping the Faith; and if his Course is at an End in this Attempt, it will be finish'd with Joy.
And thus have I set before you the two Tempers that distingui-ished thefe Tribes. Here's Death, and Life, and Curfing, and Blessing: The Choice must now be your own Act. My Time hath suffer'd me to do little more than take the Words to pieces, and consider the Parts of 'em asunder; you'll easily apply what you have heard these two ways.
1. Into a full Refentment of those Doctrines that would per-swade you out of your Liberties upon the fame Terms that Issa-char parted with Theirs. 'Tis pity that humane Nature it self should be fo far debased; but 'tis with an Aggravation that we see the Holy Name of Christ hath been blasphem'd; that those Mysteries must be our Choice, which was the Romans Abhor-rence; as the Apostle faith in another cafe, it's a Fornication not so much as nath'd among the Gentiles. Do not take it for a small matter, for at this Gap do they throw in all the Superflitious of Worship, their dannable Doctrines, as well as their cruel Meaures. 'Tis by this means they'll steal away your Religion, and fill the Nation with Darkness, and Blood.
2. This calls us up to the Praifes of God, who deliver'd us from the Stupidity of Issachar, and inspir'd us with the Temper of Dan, at our Revolution.
I'm sensible, this Mercy hath had all the Regards that the Children of Israel gave to the Manna which fell from Heaven. At first we gather'd it, we tasted it, liv'd upon it, and reckon'd it Angel's Food; now 'tis but light Bread, and we want Flesh to eat: nay, as it is said of Soa... we are going out after strange Flesh: And I doubt not but the Parallel would hold further, that it must come as soon out of our Nostrils, as it did out of theirs. What they desir'd in their Lust, they enjoy'd with a Plague, for 'ere it was chew'd, while it was yet between their Teeth, the Wrath of God fell upon 'em.

But I would recommend the great Things that he hath done for us, to your Value and Care; and this can be expressed in no better way, than by walking in the Light, while we have the Light; a Conversation that becomes the Gospel; an Abhorrence of anything that would mingle with your Religion, or defile your Practice; a Pity to the poor Protestants in France, upon whom the Clouds have return'd after the Rain; as having no Fellowship with the unfruitful Works of Darkness. And, whoever they are that have no Compassion for Blood, no Reverence for Leagues, O my Soul! come not thou into their Secret, unto their Assembly, mine Honour be not thou united; for in their Anger they slew a Man, and in their Self-will they dig down a Wall: Let such Counsel of the Wicked be far from me, I have waited for thy Salvation, O Lord.

FINIS.
